

CSA Coastal and Marine Environmental Excursion
Thursday 27 May 2010

Depart from Almond Beach Hotel : 3:45pm

Depart from Oistins: 7:30 pm

Cost: Bdos $30.00 (roughly USD$15.00)

Organised in conjunction with the Barbados National Union of Fisherfolk Organisations, Barbados Marine Trust, Centre for Resource Management and Environmental Studies

Take a late afternoon tour down the west coast of Barbados, passing through busy Bridgetown, to reach Oistins, your destination in the south ... home of the world-famous Oistins fish-fry.

Along the way gain insights from a commentary on how people, land and sea have interacted to shape the landscapes that you traverse.

Fisheries, tourism, residences of all types, among other coastal uses are topics for environmental and coastal management, governance and sustainable development.

Hear perspectives from some local researchers, small environmental NGOs and fisherfolk groups.

(Photo credit: upper end travel)

Take a short walking tour of Oistins. Hear of lives and livelihoods, issues of environmental management and sustainable development. Witness the blended culture of the Oistins fish-fry come alive as the sun gives way to the nightlife. Stay on for a while and enjoy the lime and the bustle!

To sign up for the tour, please contact Dr. Wendy Grenade of the Local Organizing Committee at wgrenade@hotmail.com. We have space for 35 persons. You will be expected to pay for the trip within the first two days of the Conference at the registration desk or your spot will be cancelled.